R.R. Hearing Is Recessed; To Reconvene On June 21

The hearing before the Mississippi Public Service Commission at the Hancock County Courthouse has been recessed until June 21. The recess was necessary due to previously arranged engagements by the members of the PSC. The date named for reconvening is on a Monday and it is contemplated that the hearing will then continue until concluded.

The first two days of the hearing were consumed in the testimony and cross-examination of R. A. Stanley, general passenger agent for the L. & N. Railroad at New Orleans.

Attorneys for the L. & N. were C. T. Combes of Louisville, Ky. and C. B. Ainsworth of Mobile.

Evidence in the form of a number of exhibits was submitted at the hearing.

Attorneys for the State of Mississippi and the City of Bay St. Louis were Mat Harper and D. M. Russell Jr.

Through the use of charts, schedules and other exhibits the L. & N. attorneys sought to show that the service now being given by Bay St. Louis was adequate by comparison with a number of other towns being served by that railroad. City attorney Russell contended that a number of other towns which in many cases were smaller than Bay St. Louis were getting actually and comparatively more service.

With the resuming of the hearing June 21, it is believed the L. & N. will present at least two and possibly more witnesses; however, it is not anticipated that the questioning of these witnesses will require as long as was needed in the questioning of Stanley.

Twenty-one witnesses for the State and City were sworn in at the beginning of the trial.

Members of the Knights of Columbus, Rotary Club, Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, Property Owners Association, St. Stanislaus St. Augustines, Committees Association and other groups have attended at least some parts of the hearing. Representatives of the City Council and the American Legion have attended the entire hearing.

Members of the Public Service Commission at the hearing included Alton Massey, chairman, Ike Sanford and Howard Little.

New C & S Grocery To Open Tomorrow

C. & S. Fine Foods No. 2 will open Friday morning, June 4, in the Joseph di Benedetto Building on the Beach at the head of Court St.

Charles Carter will manage both stores. The new store will handle strictly a cash and carry business. The original store on Railroad Ave. will continue to serve delivery and charge account customers.

Carter said the same high quality merchandise that has made the name of C. & S. synonymous with quality products would be offered in each store. Prices will be the same in both establishments.

Mrs. John Scaffide and Mrs. Harry Benjamin, the former Miss Mary di Benedetto, will serve as cashiers.

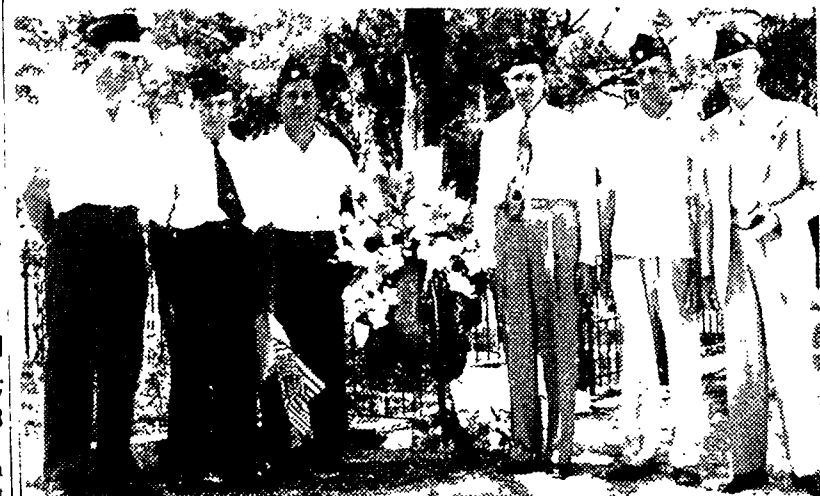

W. T. Smith, formerly employed by Swift and Co. in Gulfport, will serve in the capacity of butcher.

The new grocery will feature the latest in equipment and in display cases for merchandise.

The interior of the building has been completely renovated.

Fast and efficient service will be offered customers.

TO TAKE BLOOD FOR N.O. STORAGE WED., JUNE 16

Local Blood Bank To Retain 24 of Each 25
Blood Units Drawn

First drawing of blood for storage by the Hancock County Blood Bank will be made Wednesday, June 16, John D. Rutherford Jr., Chairman of the blood bank announced this week. Blood will be taken from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Bay St. Louis Youth Center.

All blood drawn will be deposited at Ochsner's Foundation Hospital in New Orleans, with 24 out of 25 units being credited to the Hancock County Blood Bank. This blood will remain credited to the Hancock County Blood Bank until used by the people of Hancock County, Rutherford said.

One favorable aspect of this depositary of blood at Foundation Hospital, according to Rutherford, is that it can be shipped to any point in the United States where needed by Hancock County residents. It also will be available to our people at any hospital in New Orleans, the chairman said.

Miss Mary Wright, technician for Foundation Hospital, will be in charge of the blood drawing, assisted by Miss Edna Isom, technician for the Hancock County Blood Bank.

"This is by no means a discontinuance of the Emergency Walking Blood Bank already set up," Rutherford said, "but is an additional benefit to the people of Hancock County."

Rutherford urged that every person who could should be present and donate blood to eliminate another call for blood at an early date. He expressed confidence that the people would answer this call and put it over the top in only one drawing.

Russian Paratrooper to Preach Here Sun.

A former Russian Paratrooper, converted from Communism to Christianity, will fill the pulpit at the First Baptist Church at Bay St. Louis Sunday, June 6.

85 Per Cent of US Tung Oil From This Area Says Local Woman's Magazine Article

The June issue of "Nation's Business," publication of the National Chamber of Commerce, features an article written by this talented woman.

The article deals with the Tung Oil industry, and is titled "New Markets Spur Tung Oil Output."

Extensive research was done by Mrs. Griffith in securing accurate facts to present in her article.

One of the interesting notes in the article is "from the 154,000 acres of forest in this area came 42 million of the 50 million pounds of tung oil that this country used in 1953. The rest came from Argentina—oriental process now being closed to us. At the average price of 28c a pound, the oil paid the farmers more than $11,750,000."

Mrs. Griffith, originally a native of Gladstone, Ala., moved to New Orleans following her marriage to Lloyd Griffith. About fifteen years ago they purchased a home on the Jordan River, set. Mr. and Mrs. Clair Hartwell opened their summer cottage in Bay Woods subdivision this week end. They will remain for the greater part of the summer. With them is their granddaughter, Valerie Hartwell. Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cubbage and Mrs. E. Truxler of New Orleans were their guests for the week end.

Larry Mauffray, USAF, paid an unexpected visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alden Mauffray last week end. He was flying enroute from Texas to Georgia.

Charles Kergosien visited with his sister Miss Clara Kergosien and other members of the family last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Davis attended the graduation of their son-in-law, W. E. Folse, from the Tulane University Medical school Tuesday. Their daughter, the former Miss Lorraine Davis, is the wife of the young doctor. He will intern in Columbus, Ga., and Mrs. Folse will reside there during his internship. Others attending the graduation were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Folse, Jackson, the latter before her marriage was Miss Iris Davis of Bay St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Wadsworth, both sisters of Dr. Folse, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Folse, parents of the graduate, and Mr. and Mrs. James Folse, a brother, of New Orleans; also Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Matthews, the latter Miss Beverly Davis prior to her marriage. Following the ceremonies at Tulane, the James Folse entertained the group at a buffet luncheon at their home in the city.

M/Sgt. and Mrs. R. R. Sternecker and two children are visiting for a month in Bridgeport, Conn., where SGT. Sternecker is on a special assignment.

Misses June Breath and Honorine Damborino took part in a water carnival at the White House Hotel pool in Biloxi last Saturday.

Gaydel Erwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Erwin, Pass Christian, is spending a week with her cousin, Nita Kay Erwin, at the family home on Carroll Ave.

State Oil Output

Declines Despite New Discoveries

JACKSON (Special) — Mississippi production of crude oil totaled 35,620,543 barrels in 1953, 696,009 barrels less than in the previous year, according to the Annual Petroleum Engineering Report published this month by the State Oil and Gas Board.

This decrease is partially attributable to reduced purchases of the low-gravity oil which accounts for a 10 per cent drop in Mississippi's total output in the fourth quarter of 1953. The state's greatest production of oil in 1948, when 28 fields gave up 45,665,350 barrels of crude oil. There were 91 oil and gas fields in Mississippi at the close of 1953, but total oil production was down to 35,620,543 barrels.

A very large amount of money has been spent in search of new oil reservoirs in Mississippi, and a number of new discoveries have been recorded. Most of these discoveries, however, have opened only small pools—not major oil fields. Most of the "fields" discovered since 1947 have defied attempts to expand their producing ability beyond a handful of wells. Costly "dry holes" have too often squelched ambitious development drilling near pool opener.

None of the 38 new fields established through exploratory drilling in 1952 and 1953 has yet given promise of becoming a big-volume, long-term producer of oil. The Maxie and Pearl River Counties appear destined to become a major gas condensate area, but little oil production has been proved to date in these fields. A small group of older fields continue to dominate Mississippi oil production statistics. Yazoo County's famed Tinsley field, the first and greatest oil field established in Mississippi produced at its peak more oil each month than is currently being produced by all state oil fields. Tinsley is the only Mississippi oil field counted among the major oil fields of the nation.

The Baxterville field in Lamar and Marion Counties has now surpassed Tinsley in annual production. It accounted for 5,724,000 barrels of crude in 1953 while Tinsley took second honors with 4,541,855 barrels.

The Brookhaven and Mallaleu fields in Lincoln County, Heidelberg field in Jasper County, Eucuttia and Yellow Creek fields in Wayne County, Cranfield field in Adams and Franklin Counties, and LaGrange field in Adams County combined with Baxterville and Tinsley to account for nearly 27 million barrels of the state's 35,620,543-barrel oil output in 1953.

Seven of these nine fields were discovered before 1954; the most recent of them was opened in 1947. In the geological enigma that is Mississippi, small-pool production appears to be the rule with great fields a rare exception. Major oil fields are, indeed, few and far between. It is profits in keeping with the risks they assumed by a national oil association, which has justified the wisdom that the odds against a wildcat well of its kind. Profit-seeking oilmen uncovering an oil reservoir which will supply the United States with oil for a week are nearly a thousand to one against it to fulfill the nation's needs. These same men and companies are veal that the odds against an exploratory well being completed as even the smallest commercial producer are worse than 20 to one. The men and corporations which accept these highly unfavorable odds and invest their money in the continuing search for new oil reservoirs do so only because the reward which comes success is worthy of the risk. The American economic system, by Mississippi's economic growth

This search for oil and its results, will continue to be a major factor in Mississippi's economic growth.

Kit and Kaboodle

BY KIT MICHAEL

The humidity, not the heat, seems to be top topic for discussion these days. Since it is such an important item, I've taken the time to look into the subject. Found out a few important things about it, too.

Generally speaking your body can shed heat if the humidity is low. But when the humidity is added to the heat, your body declares a state of emergency. It literally clamps down on the thousands of internal blood or-gans, while at the same time it opens up thousands of vessels in the skin and pumps the blood there to be cooled the best it can.

US Army tests on a group of healthy young men in a special room with high heat and humidity showed that the men's hearts beat rapidly their internal temperatures went up and their blood pressures were unstable. They were dull and apathetic and performed their work poorly. They showed symptoms of fatigue, headache, dizziness, lack of appetite and nausea. The real answer to the humidity problem is air conditioning. They not only cool the room, they also de-humidify it, taking the strain off the heart.

Great stress is placed on design these days. Houses with thought to ward maximum cooling advances will incorporate roof overhang, wall construction, tree shading and roof design. Insulation and the type of wall construction can reduce heat gained through walls. Frame and masonry construction are about equal in re-gards to heat gain. Additions of insu-lation can achieve substantial reduc-tions in cooling.

Great thought should be given to windows. Windows permanently shaded by trees may be considered as north windows which can mean a reduction of heat gain of 22 to 65 per cent. Walls permanently shaded by trees also are considered as north walls, re-ducing heat gain by 20 per cent.

Where the heat gain is extremely high as in a western or eastern ex-posure, it may be practical to reduce the size of or to eliminate windows, leaving them in other walls instead.

In the not-too-distant future, most American homes will be air conditioned. And after studying the facts, I'm in- clined to agree with the experts. Air conditioning is the greatest single fac-tor, to my knowledge, that has changed man's summer habits. There are seven good reasons why a room air conditioner will make you home more comfortable and more healthful, too.

1. Crisp cool air is provided. Asleep or awake a room unit provides real comfort.

2. Air is dried. Most units re-move a great deal of water from the air. There is a minimum of humidity. (A blessing for sinus sufferers.)

3. Odors are removed. Most units eliminate smoke, stale air and cook-ing odors and maintain a "fresh" at-mosphere.

4. Hay fever and asthma can be relieved. People suffering from aller-gies sometimes benefit from units be-cause they trap pollen and dust.

5. Housekeeping is made easy. Rooms with window units are easy to keep clean. Dust and dirt are kept to a minimum. (Marvelous for those small streets as yet not paved.)

6. Noise is eliminated. Units keep the air fresh while windows are closed.

7. Rooms are ventilated. Fresh, cool air is provided in quantity by window units.

After living on the Gulf Coast for a number of years, you'll readily agree with me that there have been some terrific changes in the weather. Even on days that put the white caps on the waves can be knock out if you're just a little under the weather.

So many of the wonderful year-round residents of our community have lived in cooler parts of our great country. If they find the summers just a little too tough for them to take, don't give up. Do a little re-search into air conditioning. Why miss a night's sleep because it's too muggy too hot to even breathe. I've found the answer for you. Why not look into it for yourself. It's the healthiest investment a family can make. We have some very fine air conditioning ap-paratus in Hancock County. They know their product and are willing to an-swer your questions. For your own best interest, why not investigate the in-formation just given.

Blowing through several of our popular home magazines, I was quite pleased to find several articles on garden lighting. We have so many very beautiful gardens in this area. It is unfortunate they are not lighted for evening use.

One item suggests the use of sub-merged lights for small ponds. It cre-ates a beautiful pattern of light and shadow, the light coming from the bottom of the pond, making shadows of the leaves and flowers in the pool.

An ethereal effect was achieved using lights with plastic reflectors, throwing light upward into the leafy part of the tree. Other lights shaped like tree trunks were instrumental in cre-ating a fairy-like effect in a small area that at night was just a patch of posies.

Many of the up-to-date pool lights are either frogs or floating lily pad reflectors. The pad floats on the surface of the pool and supports light bulbs in waterproof sockets.

Realistic green composition frog re-flectors have lights that reflect twelve feet. The bulb is hidden within the frog and throws the beam through the mouth.

Lights for terraces, steps and paths make walking through your lovely gar-dens safe at night. Lighting trellises, shrubs and flower beds will add much to the enjoyment of your garden.

Lights plus the wonderful insecticides available will add much to the enjoyment of your outdoor home. It will be a great lift for the hard pressed hostess. No last minute worries about ash trays, dust or removing Junior's toys. It's wonderful, it's natural and it's different.

Another bit of news for your home. A brand new product on the home mar-ket is Neoprene, known commercially as Neoprene. It can do more jobs around the home than any other product intro-duced to the American public to date.

It is a liquid, a synthetic rubber compound that is air-curing. You ap-ply it with a brush or roller or by dip-ping. Apply it to any surface where you want a tough, flexible coating of rubber. It's waterproof, it will not chip, rot or crack. It is not affected by heat or cold. You can use it right from the can as a protective coating for tanks, pipes, or any metal surface.

Neoprene prevents rusting. It is very good for coating a leaky roof, flash-ing or drain as it makes a permanent seal. It sells from about $2.50 a pint and should be in our local hard-ware stores now. Truly a terrific product.

For the housewife, remove the dan-ger of slipping on that throw rug. Coat the back of it with this liquid and it will hold tight even to a waxed floor.

For garden clubbers coat the inside of metal flower containers. It not only makes them waterproof, but rustproof. If you have a slight crack in a lovely pottery container, give it a coat of Neoprene. Coat the handles of your tools, garden, mechanical and automotive. Try it out on sports equipment. Makes fine hand grips. The thickness may be built up by re-peated coats.

Guess it just doesn't do for me to visit home shows and attend demon-strations for homemakers. I really get all hepped up when the product is good. Hope the information will be of some use to some of you. It all works.

PRAYER FOR THIS DAY

Emily May Young

Today is here; this is my prayer: Lord, if you will, make me aware Of the pagantry of this new day; Aware that each hour in its own way Has a part in an infinite plan.

Designed for the growth and good of man. Keep wonder always in my heart, Let me see each marvelous part Serving its all important part In the immensity of earth and space.

Help me to note the smallest blade, And full-grown trees, each restless glade, The flower's color, shape and scent, Facets of Your wise intent.

Help me to note the sufferer's plight, To spread abroad Your cleansing light; Remove all limitations from my soul That I may reach today's highest goal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Rollins will have a family reunion of Mrs. Rollins brother and sisters this week. From Houston, Tex. where they reside, Mrs. Othma Seane and daughter Char-kette and son Bob. They will be joined in Bay St. Louis by another daughter, Miss Suzanne Seaman, a student of Sophie Newcomb College N. O.; also Dr. L. D. Farragut, the brother of Mrs. Rollins. Another sister, Mrs. J. O. Satterwhite comes from Ballinger, Tex. and Mrs. May DeBois from San Antonio.

Luncheon for Miss Seal

Mrs. Harold Weston entertained at a luncheon Saturday in New Orleans, honoring Miss Virginia Seal.

The party was given at the home of Mrs. Corrine Dunbar on St. Charles Ave.

The luncheon table was exquisitely appointed with a wedding ring motif carrying out the decorations. A large silver wedding ring filled with a bridal bouquet centered the table. Miniature wedding rings with miniature bride's bouquets were used as place cards and corsages for the guests. A large cor-sage was at the prospective bride's place.

Members of the wedding party and close friends of the bride-elect were present. Mrs. Leo Wagner, mother of the prospective bridegroom, and Mrs. Leo Seal, mother of the prospective bride, and Mrs. John Weston also were guests.

Mr. Roger Buh Sr., Mrs. Horace Kergosien and Miss Clara Kergosien have issued invitations for an afternoon tea honoring bride-elect Virginia Seal.

The party will be held Tuesday at 4 o'clock, June 8, from 3 to 5 o'clock at the home of Miss Kergosien, 134 Carroll Ave.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Leo William Seal for the wedding and reception of their daughter, Miss Virginia Elizabeth, to Mr. Leo Frederick Wagner Jr.

The wedding will take place on June 10, with Church ceremonies held at the Main St. Methodist Church. The wedding reception will be held at the Seal home at 408 N. Beach.

Miscellaneous Shower

Miss Joanne Bontemps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bontemps Sr., bride-elect of June, was entertained Saturday afternoon with a miscellane-ous shower given by Mrs. Harold West-on. Thirty-five guests were invited to the party which was held at the Weston home on S. Beach.

Green, white and yellow carried out the color scheme, and shasta, Cali-fornia and marguerite daisies, were used in abundance in the home and also formed a centerpiece for the dining room table. Green tapers in silver holders were set on a dainty white or-gandy cloth.

Mrs. James Straughan, aunt of the bride-elect, served punch. Miss Cecil McCaleb and Mrs. Leo Praetorius, Jr. were tea girls.

Mrs. George Lehlitner and Mrs. Ho-race Farr assisted Mrs. Weston in the dining room.

Miss Bontemps was charming in a floral designed organically tulle frock. She wore a corsage of fleur d'amour blooms presented her by her hostess. Her mother, Mrs. Wallace Bontemps, was presented a glamelia corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blaize of Ab-beville, La., with their children are guests of Mrs. Blaize's sister, Miss Clara Kergosien.

Miss Yvonne Lacoste, daughter of Mrs. Emily Lacoste, was a recent visitor in Bay St. Louis, where she spent several weeks. Miss Lacoste now makes her home in Cleveland, Ohio.

Coffee Party

Wm Cooper, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cooper, is home on a visit with his parents and his grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard LeTissier, Billy is now stationed in Memphis, Tenn. One of the larger and very brilliant parties of last week was the morn-ing coffee at which Mrs. Ulysses Cuevas, Mrs. L. L. Kergosien, Mrs. M. A. Phillips Jr. and Mrs. Walter James Phillips were hostesses to Miss Virginia Seal, one of the fated brides of the season.

The party was held at the home of Mrs. Cuevas on Carroll Ave. Spring flowers adorned the reception rooms and dining area of the home. Re-ceiving with the hostesses were Miss Seal the honoree, who wore a trou-ser and seafoam frock of white linen appli-plied in navy blue and worn with a navy bolero. Mrs. Leo Seal Sr., mother of the bride-elect and Mrs. Victor Wagner, mother of the bridegroom-elect.

Serving coffee and tea were Mrs. Paul Lacoste, a cousin of the honoree, and Mrs. John Ellis Jr.

About two hundred guests were in- vited to meet the guest of honor.

A recent visitor to Bay St. Louis was Robert Duffy, formerly of New Orleans, now a resident of Atlanta, Ga. Dur-ing his brief stay here at the Reed Hotel he visited with a number of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Jaubert Pacich, who have been making their home in Bir-mingham for the last two years, re-turned to Bay St. Louis to reside and are occupying a house on Ulman Ave.

QUIET... utter, complete quiet... just as silent as your gas refrigerator. For silent, trouble-free refrigeration, use GAS. Gas does all the other big jobs in the home, too... efficiently and economically. Gas never lets you down.

The story behind the dependability of your natural gas service is one of initiative and hard work. Gas and oil producers last year discovered more than 21 trillion cubic feet of gas—over twice the amount used by consumers in the entire nation! It is essential in the best interests of all natural gas customers that the costly process of finding new reserves must continue—without needless regulation. That way we can be sure of ample gas for the future at reasonable rates.

Budget-wise families agree that natural gas service is the biggest bargain in the home today—worth every cent they pay for it—and then some!

As I See It . . .

By DR. C. M. SHIPP

WE MARVEL at the progress that has been made in Public Health. No branch of science has progressed so rapidly. Stepping into the unknown, seeking health, and uncovering the dark, hidden secrets of the body, we have made a mere cure and relieve from it. Suppose we tried to get a better view into the past. Let us look back.

We are astonished at the distance we have come. One upon a time we started from scratch because we had so few tools to work with. We teach best by demonstration, but here we had nothing to demonstrate except sickness and death. This is but the end result of ignorance and stupidity.

If you would look into the past, take a stroll into one of the old cemeteries and see the fragile bones, scattered on the marble slabs of fathers and those who failed to reach adolescence.

It might be interesting to take a look at the prescriptions in the old drug stores of the treatment used at that time. Men would practically die because they had no tools to work with. Science had not placed in their hands the knowledge we have today. They must be given full credit for their boldness in accepting these theories and new ways.

It was not the confidence they had in the new drug or the new way administered. It was the confidence they had in the scientists who proposed it. They knew every possible precaution had been taken in the experimental stages. Here, faith played the important part, for they desperately needed a new way and were willing to take the risk.

In the good old days we told people to do certain things to prevent the spread of infectious disease. Our ideas were mixed with errors. We merely were guessing in the dark with no basis for the belief whatsoever—just a hunch. We told them to do it just to keep them busy while we figured out something else. In cases of smallpox we told them to burn down the house.

Well, that is one way to disinfect a house. In the field of abstract science all fruits do not move ahead smoothly. This is certainly so in medicine. Immunization by inoculation and vaccine is a road block to epidemics which care nothing for social standing and zoning ordinances.

Then you have seen a great surge even penicillin and its allied companion drugs were made available for the cure of diseases.

Science has moved so fast that diseases which were considered incurable are now done with impunity. In the field of lung surgery we have tackled tuberculosis. Old lungs that have been torn beyond a possible cure are removed. This lets the patient return to a normal life while removing the fact of constant infection. The members of the family, this was once a disease that wiped out whole families by the chronic case acting as the spreader who could not be cured while he remained a constant source of infection to everybody he came into contact with, unknowingly killing his friends and those he loved.

The great lay is in polio myelitis and cancer. Even now in polio, right in the heels of our new preventive vaccine comes new knowledge of a better and more powerful vaccine.

No such progress has been made in cancer. Funds have been provided, patients and experimental animals have been assembled. Brilliant scientific teams are turning their mightiest guns in this onerous of the human race. Let us hope and look for the day when we have sufficient truths to master this mortal enemy of mankind. Cancer is the uninvited guest that acts like a lunatic. Instead of behaving and living among its fellow cells, the cancer cells begin to run amuck. Cancer is its incipient does not ring any bells.

Of course, no one can pull aside the curtain and gaze into the future, but some men now and then seem to stand on the brink of the present and intuitively peep into the future by speculation. They boldly cast aside deductions and step into the field of abstract science. From such thinkers we inherit our richest rewards. These discoveries, when made, seem miracles but soon fall into the group of everyday gadgets.

In medicine our opportunity for service has been great and our rewards have been many.

CONGRESSIONAL SIDELIGHTS

by CONGRESSMAN WM. M. COLMER

THE HIGH PRICE OF COFFEE

The price of a cup of coffee threatens to drive the McCarthy hearings from the front page.

Why is coffee so high? Going at $1.10 a pound here in Washington, coffee drinkers grumble with good reason at reports of speculation, cornered markets, impounded surpluses and alleged producers.

Another Congressional Committee, in an effort to determine the truth about the high price of coffee, has come up after weeks of investigating with a simple reason. The Committee indicates that it is just a case of supply and demand.

The big jump in price a few months ago can be traced to a little noticed fact that struck coffee producers in Brazil last July 4.

For a while the price of coffee was discounted, but the market finally had to face up to it. At the beginning of 1953 estimates placed world exportable production for the season at 33 million 132 pound bags of which Brazil was expected to contribute 17 million or over 50 per cent. But that first shipped three million bags from Brazil's exports. And Brazilian exports are expected to be even less during the next year.

Present coffee troubles can be traced back to the 20s when prices were good and production jumped, only to be followed by a depression in the 30s. Then the market was flooded with spot prices of green beans on the other side of the Bay.

on the New York markets in the '30s. In desperation, many Brazilian growers abandoned their plantations or uprooted trees. Heavy taxes were imposed on any new trees that were planted. So Brazil's three billion trees in 1933 dropped to 2.2 billion in 1942.

It takes five or six years for a new tree to produce, and the first thing you know, consumption demands exceeded production. It found Brazil producing 10 per cent below the average of the 30s.

At the same time, consumption in the U.S. for example, increased 40 per cent over pre-war levels. In Western Europe consumption jumped from five million bags in 1939 to 10 million in 1953. World consumption is up an average of 16 per cent since the 30s. This all adds up to an annual deficit of 1.7 million bags. The deficit has been made up by larger crops in other parts of the world, notably in Mexico and Colombia, and by larger stocks in world production.

The expected decrease in production in Brazil, where half the world's coffee is produced, may be offset by larger crops in other parts of the world, notably in Mexico and Colombia, and by larger stocks in world production.

But that first shipped three million bags from Brazil's exports. And Brazilian exports are expected to be even less during the next year.

Present coffee troubles can be traced back to the 20s when prices were good and production jumped, only to be followed by a depression in the 30s. Then the market was flooded with spot prices of green beans on the other side of the Bay.

Brother Aurelian Prepares For Visit To Native France

Brother Aurelian, a member of the St. Stanislaus Society, will visit his native country of France this summer, during some time in August in company with Brother Henry DeVries, R.D., of Natchez, Miss.

This will be the first visit home for Brother Aurelian since 1938. He still has two brothers living, one of whom is Brother Liguori, S.C., now stationed at the Father Motherhouse in Paris.

Brother Aurelian has been a familiar figure in St. Stanislaus for over half a century, being first assigned here in 1901. He is well remembered by all the old St. Stanislaus boys for his pious and strong faith. His entire life has been spent in the service of the Sacred Heart of Jesus in the boys of St. Stanislaus. He has been a humble and hidden worker of the change of the truck farm boys and boys which helped to satisfy the voracious appetites of hundreds of growing boys.

At present time Brother Aurelian devotes himself primarily to his beautiful flower garden located at the rear of his rectory. The product of his "green thumb" beautifies the altar of the school chapel during the month of May. One of his latest projects was the making of several large, neat concrete posts which help to enhance the beauty of the front porch from the roadway.

Brother Aurelian's happy and cheerful spirit continues to be a source of inspiration to his Brothers in religion. His daily life is a constant example of one who is filling out the golden years of his life in consecrated service to the glory of the Sacred Heart and the good of St. Stanislaus boys.

The Brothers and students of SSC join in wishing Brother Aurelian a pleasant and safe journey to his native land. Bro. Aurelian, Fare!

'Dangerous Mission' Playing At Star Sunday, Monday

A tense suspense adventure drama played against the grandeur of spectacular scenic Glacier National Park and enacted by a star cast including Victor Mature, Piper Laurie, William Bendix and Vincent Price is in store for local film fans at the Star Theatre where RKO Radio's Technicolor film, "Dangerous Mission," will play Sunday and Monday, June 6 and 7.

The screenplay, turned out by three of Hollywood's top writers Horace McCoy, W. R. Burnett and Charles Bennett is a tightly knit story of a madman bent on a murder within the confines of the park. Suspense is added in that the hunter must catch the hunted before the hunted catches up with him, and kills a witness to the murder for which he is being sought.

Victor Mature is excellent as the hunter Vincent Price scores as the hunted one. Piper Laurie proves a courageous and lovely witness courageous when it comes to facing the hunted and lovely when it comes to facing the hunter.

The romance between Mature and Miss Laurie is a refreshing one. Bill Bendix scores as the chief of the park rangers and Betty St. John, fresh from Broadway, enlivens things as a romance minded Indian girl.

Colmer Sponsors Bill To Protect Coast Fishermen

Rep. Wm. M. Colmer (D-Miss.) has introduced legislation to protect United States fishermen in their lawful operations on the high seas. Rep. Frank W. Boykin (D-Ala.) and several other Gulf States Congressmen, as well as representatives from both the East and West Coasts sponsored companion bills.

Colmer explained that the objectives of the legislation are threefold: To provide a legal basis for United States high seas fishery policy; To instruct US fishermen where they may fish on the high seas and to protect them while doing so.

To stiffen the backbone of the state department in international discussions and actions in connection with incidents resulting in the seizure by foreign governments of American fishing vessels by giving Congressional confirmation of existing policies.

The South Mississippi representative said that his bill defines the terms "high seas," "territorial sea," and "innocent passage," so that American fishermen would know where they could and could not lawfully operate and so as to spell out their rights for the benefit of foreign government officials.

CLAIMS STATE WILL NOT ABOLISH SCHOOL SEGREGATION

Mississippi's Legal Education Advisory Committee met yesterday and reaffirmed its determination to maintain racial segregation in schools. Members agreed that public schools will be kept if possible. If not, they will be abolished.

Gov. Hugh White, the group's chairman, said that the committee's decision is to maintain segregation in public schools. The committee voiced approval.

Gov. Hugh White, the group's chairman, named a subcommittee to draw up a formal statement emphasizing the group's purpose.

"This is the most serious problem that has ever confronted this state," the governor said in opening the meeting.

"We're all in the same boat with the same interests. It's going to take the best we have, and maybe then some."

The group named Speaker of the House Walter Sillers vice chairman unanimously, after Gartin withdrew his name from nomination.

"I'm in a political campaign," Gartin commented. He said it would be better for harmony if he was not considered for the post.

Gartin is opposing the Sen. James O. Eastland's bid for re-election.

Rep. Ney Gare of Quitman County was elected secretary by unanimous vote.

Members of the committee directed by the 1954 Legislature to find ways to maintain segregation tossed around ideas for consideration.

Gov. White named a group to decide how many subcommittees would be necessary to handle various angles of the fight to maintain segregation.

Rep. Russell Fox of Claiborne County supported Gartin's idea of a statement of purpose.

"We have a definite purpose," Fox said. "There should be a statement that we are not prepared to hedge" in efforts to prevent mixing white and Negro children.

Atty. Gen. J. P. Coleman who told television viewers last night that segregation can be maintained for many years in a variety of ways, commented:

"Our real task is to preserve our public schools if possible in addition to maintaining segregation."

Coleman stated, however, as he did schools becomes necessary, he will support night that if abolishing public part it.

Sillers, a staunch supporter of the idea of private schools, said:

"That's the big question: whether we can maintain public schools 'and by law provide public schools supported by public funds' and not run head on against the Supreme Court's decision outlawing segregation in public schools."

"I see no way to get around (the court decision) if you maintain segregated public schools," Sillers said.

"I hope we can find the way. If there is any way possible for us to maintain the public schools, we should do so."

Harvey McGhee, chief justice of the state Supreme Court, urged caution in re-making the state's education laws without trying to work out voluntary segregation.

"While I am 100 per cent in favor of maintaining segregation, we ought to consider what can be done on a voluntary basis."

"Evolution by agreement" in effect, would assure that "95 per cent of our problem can be solved," the chief justice said.

The agreement would be reached locally, he suggested, after meetings between Negroes and whites. I don't think it can be solved on a statewide basis" because of the large Negro majority in some counties.

Gov. White would be needed to put out the other five per cent from facing integration, McGhee agreed.

"I refuse to believe that more than five per cent of the Negroes of this state want to go to white schools," he said.

Rep. Hilton Watts of Washington County suggested naming a subcommittee to study with prominent Negroes who favor segregation to see their ideas and aid in maintaining segregation.

The group agreed but postponed action until after its work is along more active.

Several members approved of Jus-
